Why be an artist / designer ?

They are involved in making everything we live in, drive, wear, sit on, eat off, log on to, watch, play with, scroll through, stick on our wall.....

Artists/designers make our world.....

Table 2. Jobs in the creative industries sub-sectors, 2023–24

Sub-sector	Number of filled jobs (thousands)	% of jobs in the creative industries
IT, software and computer services	1,022	42.6%
Music, performing and visual arts	311	13.0%
Advertising and marketing	260	10.8%
Film, TV, radio and photography	256	10.7%
Publishing	187	7.8%
Design and designer fashion	140	5.8%
Architecture	122	5.1%
Museums, galleries and libraries	91	3.8%
Crafts	10	0.4%

There were 2.4million jobs in the creative industries in the UK in 2023–24. [6] This amounted to 7% of all filled jobs in the UK.

+ according to the Creative Industries Federation, the creative industries are made up of 95% microbusinesses, and around one third of workers are freelancers.

UK government figures estimate there were about 2,419,000 filled jobs in the UK creative industries during 2023.

The number is 318,000 higher than in the pre-COVID year of 2019.

This is equivalent to a 15.1 per cent increase between 2023 and 2019, giving the creative industries the highest longer-term growth rate of the areas of the creative and cultural economy that fall within the remit of the Department for Culture, Media & Sport (DCMS).

Future of Jobs Report 2025: The jobs of the future – and the skills you need to get them

Jan 8, 2025

Skills workers need to thrive

Employers expect 39% of key skills required in the job market will change by 2030. This figure represents significant disruption but is down from 44% in 2023. A growing focus on continuous learning, upskilling and reskilling programmes has enabled companies to better anticipate and manage future skill requirements, the Future of Jobs Report 2025 says.

Technological skills are projected to grow in importance more rapidly than any other skills in the next five years. AI and big data are at the top of the list, followed by networks and cybersecurity and technological literacy.

Creative thinking and resilience, flexibility and agility are also rising in importance, along with curiosity and lifelong learning.

Rounding out the top 10 skills on the rise are leadership and social influence, talent management, analytical thinking and environmental stewardship.

1. Complex Problem Solving
2. Coordinating with Others
3. People Management
4. Critical Thinking
5. Negotiation
6. Quality Control
7. Service Orientation
8. Judgment and Decision Making
9. Active Listening
10. Creativity

In today's job market,
these skills are prioritized:

- 1 Analytical thinking
- 2 Creative thinking
- 3 Resilience, flexibility and agility
- 4 Motivation and self-awareness
- 5 Curiosity and lifelong learning
- 6 Technological literacy
- 7 Dependability and attention to detail
- 8 Empathy and active listening
- 9 Leadership and social influence
- 10 Quality control

today

But in the next five years,
employers will be looking for:

- 1 Analytical thinking
- 2 Creative thinking
- 3 AI and big data
- 4 Leadership and social influence
- 5 Resilience, flexibility and agility
- 6 Curiosity and lifelong learning
- 7 Technological literacy
- 8 Design and user experience
- 9 Motivation and self-awareness
- 10 Empathy and active listening

Creativity is more important to employers
than it was 10 years ago

How much can I earn in the creative sector?

Salaries vary widely and this obviously depends on a range of factors such as: the job you do, level of seniority, employer and location.

However, DCMS statistics put median annual pay in the creative industries in 2024 at £42,399. Unsurprisingly salaries are higher in London and the South East (£48,244 and £44,037 respectively) and lower in the North East and East Midlands (£34,738 and £34,275).

Some of the highest earning sub-sectors in the creative industries, according to the DCMS statistics, include:

- IT, software and computer services (£49,500 median annual pay)
- Computer games (£48,849)
- architecture (£40,300)
- film, TV, video, radio and photography (£40,044)
- advertising (£39,705)
- design and designer fashion (£37,771)
- publishing (£37,157).

Why study ?

The creative industry workforce is highly educated, with graduates making up the majority of employees within most industries.

The workforce in the UK's creative media sectors has reached a record level of education.

- 72% of the creative workforce are highly qualified, i.e. hold a degree/ higher level qualification (Level 4 or higher) or equivalent compared with 45% for the whole economy in 2019 (DCMS 2019).

OR DO YOU WANT TO STUDY FURTHER AFIELD?

OR APPLY DIRECTLY TO A DEGREE?

(you can apply to uni via UCAS and Art foundation in the same year)

Photography?

- MET has a separate specialist photography course

Photography | UAL Diploma in Art & Design Foundation Studies | Level 3/4

A year of photographic study that encourages inventiveness and exploration, enabling you to produce a sophisticated portfolio to progress to university or employment.

This level is for students who have already achieved at least one A-Level at grade C in a related creative subject.

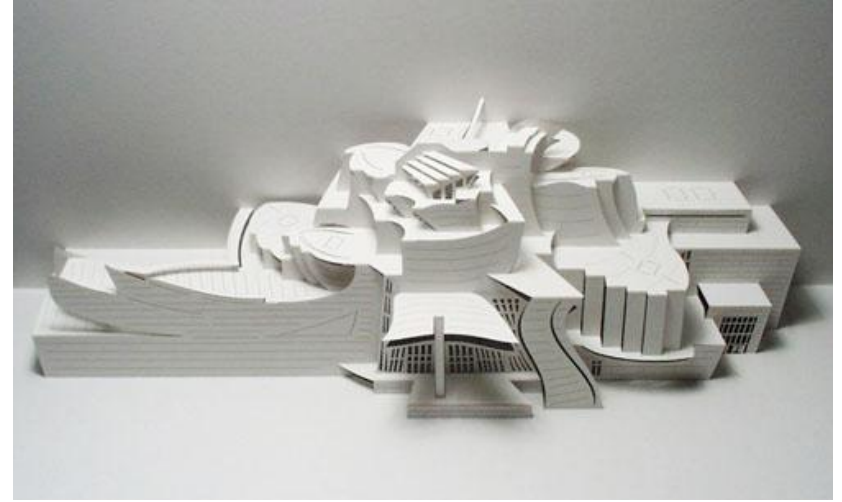

Application process is similar, (though the photography interviews can be earlier than the Art Foundation ones).

Folios are usually photographic, though you might include design / art work if you have it, particularly if it includes photography.

Architecture?

- A route via an art Foundation course or apply direct to degree whilst at college, supported by your 3D design tutors

- Specialist portfolio projects often required by some degree courses

MET
