Courses are available at level 2 and level 3, academic and vocational. There are approximately 800 exam entries per year for Creative Arts courses. Through liaison work including open evenings, visits to partner schools, individual interviews and meetings with subject tutors, students are made aware of the demands of learning at this level. Positive work goes into the recognition of prior learning, and students receive regular verbal and written feedback. Attendance, timekeeping and other issues are tracked through the student management system.

Colleagues organise study visits to theatres, galleries and museums in London, and make longer visits to Berlin, New York or Paris while the Creative Arts Enrichment Programme brings together students with practising artists, photographers and designers.

Significant numbers of students progress to specialist courses in dance, music, film and theatre. Many continue their studies in art, design or photography through Foundation Courses and specialist degrees. The Slade, Goldsmiths, Wimbledon, Kingston, Camberwell, Falmouth, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Brighton are among our visual arts students' destinations.

The School of Creative Arts has been graded as 'excellent' through the External Quality Assurance process.
